Per the DOJ Grants Financial Guide, “costs are allowable when they are reasonable, allocable to, and necessary for the performance of the federal award, and when they comply with the funding statute and agency requirements (to include the conditions of the award), including the cost principles set out in the Uniform Requirements [2 C.F.R. 4. HHS Strengthens Response to Domestic Violence through the New Office of Family Violence Prevention and Services (from March 20, 2023)

A new office, the “Office of Family Violence Prevention and Services (OFVPS)” was created in March 2023, under the Administration for Children and Families (ACF).

“ACF has identified preventing and addressing domestic violence, intimate partner violence, and dating violence as a key priority. ACF’s Family and Youth Services Bureau (FYSB) has been doing this work alongside states, tribes, and territories through its Division of Family Violence Prevention and Services for many years. With this office realignment, the Division of Family Violence Prevention and Services will move out of ACF’s FYSB and into the Immediate Office of the Assistant Secretary as the new OFVPS, allowing ACF to continue this work in partnership with health and social service agencies to improve support for families experiencing violence and trauma as Congress intended when it first authorized the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act. Creating a separate office and establishing this new office in the Assistant Secretary’s Office will better position OFVPS to support a comprehensive approach to domestic violence prevention across ACF, HHS, and the federal government.

The new Director of OFVPS is Shawndell Dawson, who has an extraordinary record of federal service and national advocacy experience on the issues of domestic and dating violence prevention, including leading ACF’s domestic violence services and interagency partnerships as the Director of the Division of Family Violence Prevention and Services, within ACF’s FYSB.

Three of the priority goals of the new OFVPS will be to:

- Develop an ACF-wide strategy and action plan for preventing and responding to domestic violence across social service programs. This ACF-wide strategy will better leverage existing services available for survivors of domestic violence, intimate partner violence, and dating violence; maximize public-private partnerships; and strengthen coordination with other federal and state government funding mechanisms for survivors.

- Maintain and lead coordination and collaboration efforts across agency partners, including continued and strengthened partnerships with the new HHS Office of Assistant Secretary for Health’s Director of Sexual & Gender-Based Violence, the Department of Justice, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and more.
- Prioritize the continued implementation appropriations to support survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault.

An established office within ACF with a singular focus on domestic violence and intimate partner violence reflects the Administration’s priorities and demonstrates a deep understanding of the scale of domestic violence in this country and the needs of all families accessing ACF services.

All ACF news releases, fact sheets, and other materials are available on the ACF news page. Follow ACF on Twitter exit disclaimer icon for more updates.”

5. OVV: Overview of the Tribal Affairs Division (TAD)

TAD manages four of the 19 grant programs administered by the Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) as well as tribal specific special initiatives. The video below is an introduction to the four TAD grant programs: Tribal Governments Program, Tribal Jurisdiction Program, Tribal Sexual Assault Services Program and the Tribal Coalitions Program.

The Tribal Affairs Division hopes this information will be helpful with accessing funding resources your community may need to develop projects and programs that comprehensively address the issues your community is facing with sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, sex trafficking, and stalking.

6. OVV: DOJ Grants Financial Guide

The DOJ Financial Guide (DOJ Financial Guide) serves as the guide to assist recipients in fulfilling their fiduciary responsibility to safeguard grant funds and ensure funds are used for the purposes for which they were awarded. The most recent revision to the guide became effective March 31, 2022. The revised Guide and prior versions are available on OVW’s website at <https://www.justice.gov/ovw/grant-management>. 7. FVPSA: Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA) FVPSA Annual Funding and American Rescue Plan (ARP) Performance Progress Report (PPR) Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) for Formula and Discretionary Grant Recipients

View the FAQ here.

- DATE: October 27, 2022
- FROM: Shawndell N. Dawson, Director
- Division of Family Violence Prevention and Services
- Family and Youth Services Bureau
- Administration for Children, Youth, and Families
- TO: Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA) Grant Recipients
- SUBJECT: Frequently Asked Questions on the Performance Progress Reports (PPR) for FVPSA annual core funding and FVPSA American Rescue Plan (ARP) supplemental funding

Performance progress reports (PPR) document grant recipient accomplishments and compliance with terms of federal grant awards. The FVPSA Program has received many questions from FVPSA grant recipients about their ability to combine reporting of ARP supplemental funding with their annual core FVPSA funding performance progress reports. Combined reporting of the annual FVPSA core funding and ARP funding is not allowed, and grant recipients are required to submit one PPR for their annual core FVPSA funding and one separate PPR for all their ARP supplemental funding. The FVPSA Program’s responses and clarifications to grant recipient performance progress reporting questions are discussed in this document.

In accordance with federal regulations and statutes, the FVPSA PPR reporting process for states, territories, tribes, coalitions, and discretionary grant recipients has not changed and the instructions listed in each form for completing and submitting PPR reports has not changed at all. FVPSA grant recipients are expected to use the same processes for reporting and submitting PPR reports to the FVPSA Program that they have used over the past 12 years.

Please note that the FVPSA Program only has one set of Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA) approved reporting forms for annual reporting from the states, tribes, and coalitions, OMB Approval Number: 0970-0280, Expiration Date: 05/31/2024. The FVPSA Program only has one ACF OMB PRA approved reporting form for discretionary grant recipients OMB Approval Number: 0970-0406 Expiration Date: 11/30/2022. FVPSA grant recipients will not be required to make substantive changes to their reporting processes or procedures for one-time ARP supplemental funding.

2. Letter from DVS to Tribal Leadership: Regarding Talking Circle (sent March 20, 2023)

“Dear Tribal Leadership:

In February of 2022 the Division of Victim Services coordinated a virtual Talking Circle with Tribal Leaders, Tribal Advocates and MDHHS Division of Victim Services (DVS) staff. As you may know, DVS administers nearly 600 contracts that fund more than 200 community-based programs, Tribes, and government partners across Michigan that provide vital services to victims, such as counseling, legal and medical advocacy, emergency housing, and crime victims’ rights advocacy. The Division also provides reimbursement for sexual assault medical forensic examinations, direct compensation to victims through Michigan’s Crime Victim Compensation program as well as supports the statewide victim notification system (MI-VINE). Nine Tribes in Michigan currently have contracts with the Division of Victim Services to provide services to victims of crime.

We deeply appreciated the thoughts and feedback you provided us during our 2022 Talking Circle about the needs of crime victims in your communities and our partnership with your Tribe. During that event the Division of Victim Services committed to hosting regular Talking Circles with Tribal Leadership. Since then, we have been working with Rachel Carr-Shunk and Sandra Pilgrim Lewis at Uniting Three Fires Against Violence to identify a date and time for a virtual Talking Circle this spring. As our conversations with them unfolded we decided to work toward an in person Talking Circle rather than one via Zoom. We are grateful for their guidance on this and agree that it is a great idea! For convenience of everyone’s travel and time, it is our hope to be able to host an in person Talking Circle in conjunction with the Tribal Leadership Summit this fall. Please look for an invitation as UTFAV’s Tribal Leadership Summit scheduling plans solidify.

We are committed to supporting Tribal Nations and communities whenever possible in their efforts to provide culturally honoring services to crime victims including victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, child abuse, and human trafficking among others. You are key stakeholders in this critical work. We honor and are grateful for the commitment you have made to survivors in your Nations and communities. Your expertise in culturally-rooted service provision and prevention efforts for the members of your communities is well-known and respected in our office. Your willingness to share your knowledge and experience of the unique gaps and needs of your Nation is extremely valuable in building and sustaining meaningful partnerships and we are committed to the continued cultivation of our relationships and very much look forward to meeting you in person at the next Talking Circle.

Sincerely,

Gail Krieger

3. Surveillance Security Cameras inside shelter and non shelter service provider areas (from April 7, 2023)

“Good morning,

I hope this finds you doing well and hopefully welcoming in spring weather.

Over the last few years many grantees have called DVS seeking direction and guidance on the use of surveillance cameras. There have also been significant discussions at the state and national level among the victim service provider community. As a result of these inquiries and discussions, DVS has developed a paper which is intended to help Michigan organizations make thoughtful decisions about the use of surveillance cameras in client spaces. This paper provides an overview of relevant state and federal law/regulation and a review of considerations for organizations as you navigate determinations about the use of surveillance cameras and any policies and practices.

Additionally, the National Network to End Domestic Violence has issued guidance and consideration on the use of Video Cameras and Surveillance at Programs

Video Cameras Tipsheet – Safety Net Project \(techsafety.org\)

Interior Video Surveillance – Safety Net Project \(techsafety.org\)

Exterior Video Surveillance – Safety Net Project \(techsafety.org\)

We will also be looking to create some opportunities for discussion surrounding the use of video cameras and surveillance in the near future.

Please feel free to reach out if you would like to process the information shared.

7. DVS January 2023 Tribal Talking Circle Follow-Up (February 21, 2023)

“Good morning,

I was honored to participate in a Tribal Advocacy Listening session in January of 2023 at the invitation of Uniting Three Fires Against Violence. I again want to thank everyone who participated in that event for sharing your experiences, needs and insights. We have a few updates and appreciate your patience as we have been working to set up an infrastructure of support based on your feedback.

First, to track tribal issues and concerns in an ongoing way, we have implemented a tracking sheet that we intend to keep updated, which is attached HERE. We hope this is a helpful and productive tool.

Next, going forward we are pleased to share the following:

- Julie Giddings will serve as the contract teams tribal advocate/grantee liaison – giddingsj@michigan.gov. Questions about contracts can be directed to Julie. In addition, Julie or an alternative member of the contracts team will work to attend the MTVAC (Michigan Tribal Victim Advocate Consortium Meeting) quarterly meetings as schedules allow.
- Nora Williams will serve as the DVS QA tribal advocate/grantee liaison – williamsn17@michigan.gov. Nora will engage in an ongoing way with grantees with a focus on relationship building and ongoing participation.

Cathy Brown, brownc89@michigan.gov, will continue on in her critical role of leading the Division’s larger Culturally Specific and Underserved (CSU) grant strategy and work closely with Julie and Nora. The Division of Victim Services recognizes the importance and value of the much needed services and supports that the tribal advocates provide to native survivors who too often are invisible and unheard. We look forward to working with you to support the amazingly culturally centered work in assisting survivors with securing safety, removing barriers on their journey to healing.

We are also pleased to be hosting our next DV/SA Grantee Leadership Meeting (formerly the Agency Director’s Meeting) in Grand Rapids on May 4th and 5th in anticipation of having the honor of walking alongside Tribal Advocates and other community members to Honor, Remember, and Recognize May 5th as National Missing Murdered Indigenous Peoples Awareness Day. While one day is not enough to honor and raise awareness concerning the impact that has affected Native Communities across the Nation. Native peoples are afforded one day to Honor, Remember and Recognize the thousands of lives that have been affected to not only those that have passed, those that are missing but, also the thousands of families that have lost loved ones.

Please replace the meeting schedule you received last month with this revised version.”

13. Travel policy change! (February 1, 2023)

Effective immediately grantees may bill for travel costs up to individual grantees approved travel policies/rates. Where a policy does not exist, the State travel rates must be followed. Please contact us at MDHHS-DVS@michigan.gov if you have any questions.

Question/Concern

It is difficult to find a hotel at State rates.

Do we have any flexibility to increase the amount we can be reimbursed for the cost of hotels?

Actions Taken/Proposed

Effective Immediately - Travel Costs

Effective immediately Grantees may bill for travel costs up to individual grantees approved travel policies/rates. Where a policy does not exist, the State travel rates must be followed.

1. Be reimbursed for travel costs (including mileage, meals and lodging) budgeted and incurred related to activities provided under this Agreement.
 - a. If the Grantee has a documented policy related to travel reimbursement for employees and if the Grantee follows that documented policy, the Department will reimburse the Grantee for travel costs at the Grantee’s documented reimbursement rate for employees. Otherwise, the state of Michigan travel reimbursement rate applies.
 - b. State of Michigan travel rates may be found at the following website: https://www.michigan.gov/dtmb/0,5552,7-358-82548_13132---,00.html
 - c. International travel must be preapproved by the Department and itemized in the budget.

14. Grantee Concerns and Recommendations (January 27 2023)

The DVS has been working on many fronts to address and respond to the questions and concerns that have been raised by grantees over the past few months. The attached is a working document that the DVS uses to track requests/concerns that have been identified and progress toward addressing the concern. We will be distributing this document to grantees periodically as a mechanism for keeping you updated. Following are three significant changes that have been addressed as a result of your feedback:

Grant Program Impacted: DVCS – VOCA

Concern: The time to administer the split in funding between DV and SA is excessive and is not beneficial to serving clients

Action Taken: Effective Immediately - The DVS will expand client eligibility under the Domestic Violence Comprehensive Services - VOCA (DVCSV) grant to allow programs to serve survivors who experienced sexual assault in the context of intimate partner violence as well as survivors of non-intimate partner sexual assault/abuse. This fix is not intended to support entire sexual assault programs or fund sexual assault staff, but rather to provide additional administrative flexibility and allow DV programs to effectively serve the occasional non-IPV sexual assault survivor.

Grant Program Impacted: All Grants

Concern: The DHHS audit requirement that vendor cards cannot be billed on FSRs until they are dispersed to clients is burdensome and causes grantees to either spend staff time purchasing vendor cards one at a time, or fronting expenses for a period of time.

Action Taken: DVS requested reconsideration due to the hardship to grantees. DHHS audit has reversed the directive and has indicated that vendor cards may be included on FSRs as soon as the grantee incurred the cost

Grant Program Impacted: TSH/TSHV

Concern: The TSH/TSHV programs do not allow the purchase of vendor cards. This makes supporting and empowering clients very challenging.

Action Taken: Effective immediately - vendor cards will be allowable in both the TSH and TSHV grants. Additional information to follow about how to use current grant funds for vendor cards.

Please continue to let us know your ideas and recommendations. Your feedback is essential.

Thank you for your continued efforts to advocate on behalf of survivors. You are the front line and safety net for survivors, thank you for the work you do every day.

15. VOCA and DVS Funding Update (January 26, 2023)

We recognize that grantees are anxious for an update on VOCA funding for budget development and planning purposes. While we do not have all of the answers, we wanted to give you an update of where we are right now. Please take a moment to watch the following funding video <https://www.michigan.gov/mdhhs/safety-injury-prev/publicsafety/crimevictims/grants-and-funding/current-grantees/voca-update-for-grantees>. Updates will go out as we get more information. In the meantime, we hope this helps you understand how funding has been allocated over time and some of the factors we are trying to balance going forward.

In addition, we have attached a document entitled Major DVS Grant Programs. This chart is intended to provide an overview of DVS funding. DVS will be doing webinars regarding DVS funding in the near future.

Consultation/Listening Session Opportunities

1. USAO Western District of Michigan – Consultation with 11 Tribes in District

The USAOWDMI is seeking to schedule Consultations with 11 of the 12 Tribes (Saginaw Chippewa Tribal advocates/staff you can disregard this portion of the email)... Per his email, this letter was sent February 28, 2023, so it's very likely that your Tribal Leaders have yet to officially see it. I am thankful he forwarded to UTFAV, so that we can try to stay on track with this effort, in addition to keeping you all updated as well. It looks like the Consultations won't be held until at least April.

We will be doing additional outreach with Tribal leaders regarding this Consultation, especially encouraging that their testimony includes information/input from tribal advocates/programs. In addition, we will continue to raise issue regarding the MMIP Coordinator position as well (Saginaw Chippewa Tribal advocates/staff – this may still be relevant for you). While that position is set to expire before these Consultations, we still feel it's important that Tribal Leaders continue to raise it as an issue, especially because Mr. Totten did not include any reference to comments shared by Tribal Leaders at the United Tribes Meeting regarding the MMIP Coordinator position.

Dear Tribal Leader Letter is copied and pasted below, in addition to being linked below

“Re: Request for Consultation re. regionally appropriate MMIP guidelines; adoption of a Consultation procedure; and revisions to my office’s prosecution guidelines

Dear Tribal Leader

During the February 9, 2023 United Tribes of Michigan meeting, I mentioned my intent to request a Consultation regarding the regionally appropriate MMIP guidelines; my office’s adoption of a formal Consultation procedure; and revisions to my office’s prosecution guidelines. Through this letter, I would like to begin the Consultation process.

I will not repeat my January 18, 2023 letter about the regionally appropriate MMIP guidelines but will briefly comment on the proposed Consultation procedure and revisions to the prosecution guidelines. The Consultation procedure aims to ensure meaningful discussions between my office and the [Tribe Name] before my office adopts or amends any policies or procedures that have a significant impact on the tribe, my office’s relationship with the tribe, or the distribution of power between the federal government and the tribe.

The revisions to the prosecutorial guidelines maintain my office’s commitment to prosecute those crimes my office has traditionally prosecuted. In addition, the revised guidelines include specific guidance on when my office will initiate a narcotics case arising on tribal land. The guidance largely mirrors the factors my office said it would consider in a 2013 letter sent to tribal leaders, which I now seek to formally incorporate into the prosecutorial guidelines.

Though I have already circulated an initial version of our regionally appropriate MMIP guidelines, I do so again here, along with a copy of my office’s proposed Consultation procedure, which would be incorporated into my office’s operational plan, and revised prosecutorial guidelines for Indian Country. My hope is that you and other tribal leaders will review these documents so that you can make an informed decision about who should be present at the Consultation. As required by Savanna’s Act, the following groups will be invited to the Consultation:

- 1. The Department of Justice*
- 2. The Federal Bureau of Investigation*
- 3. The Department of Interior*
- 4. The Bureau of Indian Affairs*
- 5. Tribal, state, and local law enforcement agencies*
- 6. Medical examiners*
- 7. Coroners*
- 8. Tribal, state, and local organizations that provide victim services*
- 9. National, regional, or urban Indian organizations with relevant expertise*

However, as to other participants, you and the other tribal leaders are in a better position to decide who should be part of this process from the tribe’s perspective. I will suggest we begin the Consultation discussing the regionally appropriate MMIP guidelines, so that these additional attendees can leave the Consultation before we discuss the other two items.

We will also need to coordinate when and how to conduct this Consultation. Though I am not opposed to conducting the Consultation in person, scheduling an in-person Consultation will likely delay the meeting substantially. Further, in-person meetings will probably limit who can attend. For that reason, I suggest we conduct the Consultation via video conference. To ensure adequate time to review the materials, and to follow the 30-day advance notice provision in the proposed Consultation procedure, I would suggest we aim to schedule the Consultation sometime the week of April 3, 2023 or thereafter.

To begin scheduling the Consultation, please have someone contact my Executive Assistant, Sydney Jaenicke. She can be reached at (616) XXX-XXXX or at sydney.jaenicke@usdoj.gov. Sydney can then work to schedule the Consultation so that it is accessible and convenient for all parties involved. Please let her know the names and email addresses of anyone you would like to receive the invitation. In addition, if you have any written comments you would like to provide in advance of the Consultation, you can e-mail the comments to Sydney, who will make sure all the participants receive a copy.

Many thanks,

Mark A. Totten

The Department of Justice offers funding opportunities to support law enforcement and public safety activities in state, local, and tribal jurisdictions; to assist victims of crime; to provide training and technical assistance; to conduct research and collect national statistics; and to implement programs that improve the criminal, civil, and juvenile justice systems. The DOJ Program Plan is a tool to help find potential funding opportunities (solicitations) from DOJ's grant-making Components, the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS), Office of Justice Programs (OJP), and Office on Violence Against Women (OVW). The Program Plan provides summary details of the funding opportunities each DOJ grant-making Component is expecting to release or has released in a particular fiscal year.

To Search, click Use Search Filters, enter the search criteria and then click Show. Click on any solicitation title for more information. From there click Results to return to your Search results or click Use Search Filters to enter new or refined search criteria. You can filter by the grant-making component or office (i.e., COPS, OJP program offices, and OVW), keywords, eligible applicant categories, and expected release date.

To address the need for homelessness assistance and supportive services, Congress appropriated $5 billion in ARP funds to be administered through HOME to perform four activities that must primarily benefit qualifying individuals and families who are homeless, at risk of homelessness, or in other vulnerable populations. 15. Freedom Dreaming: Envisioning Healing Communities for Survivors with Disabilities and Deaf Survivors

May 9, 2023 02:00 PM ET

Freedom Dreaming is a concept that was put forth in 2003 by Professor Robin D.G. Kelly, a Black historian and author who is presently the Gary B. Nash Professor of American History at UCLA. To practice "freedom dreaming", we are called to envision not what we are fighting against, but what we are fighting for. This practice, while only recently coined two decades ago, has been a practice long passed on through different generations of Black and Brown leaders.

For our May webinar, Tarana Burke – the founder of the Me Too movement – and Najma Johnson – the founder of Together All in Solidarity – will engage in an intimate conversation about their respective experiences working in the anti-violence movement and how we can apply the practice of Freedom Dreaming to building a more inclusive and accessible movement.

18. National Indian Country Training Initiative Online Training Announcement Title: Culture as Prevention Webinar Series: Tribal Notification when Native Youth are Involved in State or Local Juvenile Justice Systems

Date: May 11, 2023, 2:00 - 3:30 pm EDT

Register Here: <https://usao.webex.com/weblink/register/r3ae5f7fd30cd194d4b09c627f4540dd6>

Given that the majority of Tribal youth reside outside of Indian country, any juvenile delinquency proceedings or criminal charges will likely involve state or local juvenile justice systems. The Indian Child Welfare Act does not require Tribal notification when a Tribal youth is involved in a state or local juvenile justice system. Thus, Tribes may be unaware of Tribal youth involvement in a state or local juvenile justice system. However, several states have adopted systems requiring notification to a Tribe when a Native American youth is involved in juvenile justice proceedings. These notification systems work to connect Tribal youth with their culture and to services available through the Tribe while the youth is involved in the state or local juvenile justice system. In this webinar, participants will learn more about the legal authority for and implementation of state Tribal notification systems. Faculty will include State and Tribal representatives who have implemented a notification system in their jurisdiction.

This webinar is the first in a series titled Culture as Prevention. The training series is the result of a partnership between DOJ's Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention and the National Indian Country Training Initiative. This webinar is available to all federal, state, local and Tribal juvenile justice and social service professionals, as well as those interested in exploring a Tribal notification system in their state. The training is free.

May 15th, 2023 2:30pm ET

Please join representatives from the Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) for a webinar on the Special Tribal Criminal Jurisdiction Reimbursement Program.

The Violence Against Women Act Reauthorization Act of 2022 authorized a new program to reimburse Tribal governments for expenses incurred in exercising "special Tribal criminal jurisdiction" over non-Indians who commit certain covered crimes in Indian country. On April 11, 2023 the Department of Justice published an interim final rule to implement this new Tribal Reimbursement Program. The rule provides details about how the program will be administered, including eligibility, frequency of reimbursement, costs that can be reimbursed, the annual maximum allowable reimbursement per Tribe, and conditions for waiver of the annual maximum.

20. *Dorothy Roberts: "How the Family Policing System Endangers Survivors and Their Children"

May 16, 2023
2:00-3:30pm ET

Description

"Children are taken on grounds of neglect where there isn't any evidence of severe abuse," said Roberts, the author of Torn Apart: How the Child Welfare System Destroys Black Families – and How Abolition Can Build a

Safer World. "We could imagine a better way of dealing with the families' and the children's needs without resorting to this traumatic intervention of seizing children. We shouldn't think of them as aberrant cases."

How are adult and child survivors of sexual assault and domestic violence, especially BIPOC survivors, impacted by what we call the child welfare system? How is the family policing system connected to sexual violence and the trauma to prison pipeline?

Many survivors become entangled into the child welfare/family policing system in the course of their daily lives - when accessing education, housing, health care, services for survivors of SA/DV and so much more. What is our role as anti-violence survivor-centered advocates in this? How can we continue to support survivors and their families when state agencies become barriers, tools of surveillance, and sites of increased oppression and risk of experiencing violence?

Join us for a virtual talk with Professor Dorothy E Roberts who will explore these tensions and provide insight in how we can continue to support survivors and their families.

ASL & CART will be provided. Please request any other accommodation needs in your registration. This session will be recorded; HOWEVER, it will only be accessible with a protected link for a year."

21. Foundation and Key Principles: Strengthening the Role of Advocacy in Indian Country Workshop (from NIWRC)

May 16 - May 18, 2023
Aurora, CO & Virtually

About the Workshop

The foundation of advocates' role in Indian Country is built upon our Indigenous understanding of our relationships and roles as Relatives in the context of historical and ongoing dynamics of colonization. The key principles of advocacy come from indigenous cultural beliefs and values and encompass concepts of resilience, trauma-informed approaches, and sovereignty. These are the themes of this workshop, with a focus on the dynamics and impact of battering/ intimate partner violence, particularly on Native women. Key topics include basic advocacy skills, confidentiality, and elements of shelter and other safe spaces. Advocates' role in social change initiatives outside of shelter doors is also addressed. A special session on COVID-19 mitigation best practices and indoor air mitigation tools have been added to the agenda this year, given the ongoing pandemic. Discussion and interactive exercises are planned throughout this workshop.

Please note that you may register to attend this 3-day workshop in person or virtually.

For those attending in person, given the resurgence of COVID-19 cases and to safeguard our health and that of our relatives, we are encouraging those who have not been vaccinated to get the vaccination. If vaccinated, please provide proof at workshop check-in. In an effort to provide an equitable and accessible space, we are requesting participants to get tested 72 hours prior to the first day of this workshop. We will be providing masks and hand sanitizer during sessions. We strongly request participants test each morning before the session begins. The maximum number of participants has also been lowered to allow for social distancing within the workshop. Health and safety are our priorities. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated as we move together through these challenging times.

23. Building Trauma-Informed Advocacy Skills (from MiVAN)

May 17, 10:00am-12:00pm ET

Building trauma-informed advocacy skills

Many advocates already know a lot about trauma and use their knowledge and training to help survivors recover every day, but it can also be healing in and of itself to share information about trauma directly with survivors. Being prepared with evidence-based responses to challenges, confusion, or myths you may hear is one way to help survivors begin their healing journey. Interactive breakout sessions, facilitated by experienced trainers, will offer an opportunity to practice different communication approaches and reflect as a group.

In this workshop, we will discuss:

- Tips for how and when to talk about the trauma response
- Key trauma facts to share with survivors and myths to dispel
- How to use a strengths-based advocacy approach to validate and normalize survivor experiences while providing resources and information about trauma.

This 2-hour interactive practice session builds on the information presented in MiVAN's Trauma Across the Lifespan webinar series and provides a facilitated space to practice advocacy skills and exercises. Completion of the webinar series is a pre-requisite for workshop registration.

Title: Justice Systems from the Kid's Perspective: Supporting Native Child Victims and Witnesses

Dates: May 22, 2023 2:00 – 4:00 pm EDT

Register Here: <https://usao.webex.com/webink/register/r495c6e5ff2c24dd8315235cd506e67bb>

Children are amongst the most vulnerable members of our society and are widely recognized as requiring care and protection, yet they are often victims of or witnesses to violence, abuse and other crimes. As a result, children may have to navigate child welfare and criminal legal systems that are intimidating, confusing and overwhelming for adults, let alone for children, whose systems involvement may exacerbate their trauma and distress. In addition, Native American child victims and witnesses have unique historical, community and cultural contexts, and often face the added challenge of navigating complicated jurisdictional issues between tribal, state and federal justice systems.

The Center for Justice Innovation's Child Witness Materials Project, an initiative funded by the U.S. Office for Victims of Crime (OVC), addresses these systemic gaps through a package of materials for children aged 2-18 that empower and inform them as they interact with the child welfare and criminal legal systems. These materials utilize illustrated narratives featuring child and adolescent characters that explain how the child welfare and criminal legal systems work in a developmentally-appropriate way. Recognizing the unique needs of Native child victims and witnesses, the Office for Victims of Crime provided additional funding to the Center to create specialized materials for this population.

In this presentation, participants will learn more about how Native children experience the child welfare and criminal legal systems, and how to best meet their informational and emotional support needs in a trauma-informed, child-friendly way, including through the use of the Center's child witness materials.

This webinar is available to all federal, state and tribal criminal justice and social service professionals working with tribal communities. There is no tuition charge for this training.

26. Engaging The Mind-Body Connection (From MiVAN)

May 24 from 1:00PM EST – 3:00PM EST

Recognizing when someone may be experiencing a trauma response such as getting triggered is an important advocacy skill that will help prevent re-traumatizing survivors and promote recovery and healing. Responding to triggers with simple, evidence-based mind-body tools like breathing and grounding exercises can be an empowering way for survivors to move forward through their healing. Interactive breakout sessions and group practice, facilitated by experienced trainers, will offer an opportunity to check skills in recognizing trauma reactions and practice responding with various mind-body tools.

In this workshop, we will discuss:

- Identifying different types of triggered responses.
- Recognizing when it is appropriate to introduce mind-body tools.
- Responding to specific triggered reactions with mind-body exercises.
- Using a strengths-based approach to help survivors become more aware of their own internal state and develop healthy coping skills for hyperarousal and dissociation using mind-body tools.

This 2-hour interactive practice session builds on the information presented in MIVAN's Trauma Across the Lifespan webinar series and provides a facilitated space to practice advocacy skills and exercises. Completion of the webinar series is a pre-requisite for workshop registration.

Join the leading experts in the country from the Training Institute in Strangulation Prevention, a program of Alliance for HOPE International, and the Department of Justice's National Indian Country Training Initiative in a dynamic, hands-on 3.5-day course on strangulation and suffocation murders.

Crime scene staging research has found that most offenders who stage crime scenes are male, most victims are female, and the most common victim-offender relationship involving staging is intimate partner relationships. Therefore, this course focuses on detecting staged crime scenes in intimate partner-related deaths.

Seasoned investigators, medical examiners, and prosecutors can be misdirected by killers and can close highly suspicious cases as accidents, suicides, or undetermined cause of death cases. This course will identify the primary mistakes made in staged crime scene cases and walk attendees through the pathway to build prosecutable homicide cases. Attendees will work on actual cases and meet the surviving family members of the victims. Registration is limited. Priority will be given to multidisciplinary federal and tribal teams working in tribal communities. Prosecutors, law enforcement, advocates and medical personnel are encouraged to register as a team.

1. *Listen Now: American Genocide Podcast Launches Today! (from Illuminative)

“A PODCAST ABOUT

THE CRIMES OF NATIVE AMERICAN BOARDING SCHOOLS

Amidst an unprecedented federal investigation into hundreds of Native Boarding Schools and the 100,000+ children these institutions forcibly removed, one school has become the epicenter of controversy in America’s attempt to reckon with its dark history: Red Cloud Indian School. While today some see the school as a positive presence in the Pine Ridge Reservation, home to the Oglala Lakota Tribe, others cite it as a perpetrator of generational trauma. While the U.S. government is starting to admit its culpability in a church-facilitated campaign of genocide, the quest for justice is exposing tension throughout the Native community. In this new podcast from IllumiNative, series hosts Crystal Echo Hawk (Pawnee) and Lashay Wesley (Choctaw) hit the ground in Pine Ridge, South Dakota to chronicle the actively-developing situation for themselves, covering every twist and turn in this true crime story about the compounding intergenerational pain of Native American boarding schools and whether it’s possible for a community, Native peoples, and the United States to achieve truth, healing, and reconciliation.”

3. Tech Talk: The Myths and Realities of Stalkerware (new resource from NNEDV)

“Greetings everyone!

We are excited to share our fourth Tech Talk: The Myths and Realities of Stalkerware featuring Tech expert, Martijn Grooten. In this talk, we'll define stalkerware, how survivors can identify it on their devices, and what advocates can do to support survivors.

The Myths and Realities of Stalkerware: Stalkerware refers to tools- software programs, apps and devices that are often used by abusers to stealthily monitor and control survivors. Many stalkerware companies market their product as a tool that can help parents who are looking to keep their child [ren] “safe” online or as a tool for adult children that may want to monitor their aging parents. While it may be marketed as a safety measure, many of these apps function covertly and operate in an intrusive way. This can impact survivors’ safety and privacy and place them at risk. Stalkerware can be dangerous for survivors because it can keep track of activities on their device, such as pictures and videos they take, websites they visit, texts, calls, and their location. This talk will provide information that survivors and advocates can use if they suspect stalkerware has been added to their device.

4. (new episode) The Podcast on Crimes Against Women is back for Season 4, episode 16!

Technology-Facilitated Child Abuse

Children are often the overlooked and underserved victims of domestic violence, especially post-separation from an abusive partner. It is during post-separation that technology is often weaponized to target children further abusing and controlling them and their mothers. This episode explores recent studies that expose the extensive levels of abuse children experience in homes where domestic violence occurs with an emphasis on technology-facilitated methods of abuse. Our guest, criminologist and domestic violence researcher Molly Dragiewicz, reveals the stunning findings of the eSafety Research report “Children and technology-facilitated abuse in domestic and family violence situations” and other studies, as well as strategies to safeguard privacy and enhance personal safety.

Molly Dragiewicz is an Associate Professor in the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Griffith University in Australia. Ms. Dragiewicz is an internationally award-winning criminologist who studies violence, gender, technology, and cybercrime. She completed the world-first study of women’s experiences of technology-facilitated coercive control and the world-first study on the ways children are involved in technology abuse. Ms. Dragiewicz is highly involved in interdisciplinary, collaborative research with community organizations working to end violence against women. She is a frequently invited speaker and trainer for judicial officers, lawyers, first responders, domestic violence advocates, and universities. She founded Australia’s first interdisciplinary graduate certificate in domestic violence and is the founder and convenor of the Brisbane Domestic Violence Research Student Network (BDVRSN). Ms. Dragiewicz also serves on the Board of Queensland’s Domestic and Family Violence Death Review and the Gold Coast Family Law Pathways Network.

5. Start by Believing: A Tool for Prevention (from End Violence Against Women International)

In April 2021, we are celebrating ten years since EVAWI first launched the Start by Believing campaign. Over the past decade, 554 US communities have launched campaigns, seeking to improve the way we respond to sexual and domestic violence, and thousands of people have made the pledge to Start by Believing. Campaigns have been launched in 23 other countries that we know of. During this session, we will discuss the ways in which Start by Believing can be viewed through the lens of prevention and reduce violence across the lifespan. Using stories from survivors, the presenter will share ways that Start by Believing can change justice and healing outcomes. We will also discuss how a positive response, such as believing the survivor, can prevent long-term health and healing consequences such as post traumatic stress disorder, suicide ideation, and autoimmune disease. We will also review preliminary evidence suggesting Start by Believing may have a positive impact on whether victims report or seek help.

OBJECTIVES

As a result of this webinar, participants will be better able to:

- Identify at least 3 ways Start by Believing can be used as a tool to prevent future sexual assaults.
- Examine the research on positive and negative responses to disclosures of sexual assault.
- Recognize the long-term health consequences of sexual assault, and how Start by Believing can be used as a tool for the prevention of those consequences.
- Explain the potential impact of Start by Believing on victim’s reporting and help seeking behaviors.

Legislation

1. Michigan House and Senate FY24 Budget

An update will be coming separately regarding the Michigan Senate and House FY24 Budget and its impact on funding for victim service providers across Michigan.

2. NIWRC's 118th Congress Legislative Update: April 2021

NON-FEDERAL MOMENT

Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA)

On April 13, 2023, Representatives Rep. Lucy McBath (D-GA-7), Gwen Moore (D-WI-4), Brian Fitzpatrick (R-PA-1), and Young Kim (R-CA-40) reintroduced the Family Violence Prevention and Services Improvement Act of 2023 (H.R. 2604). FVPSA provides critical funding for shelter and supportive services for victims of domestic violence, including those in Indian Country.

The FVPSA reauthorization bill provides critical support for shelters, coalitions, training, and technical assistance centers, children’s services, emergency response hotlines, and prevention initiatives. The FVPSA is also the only federal grant program solely dedicated to domestic violence shelter and supportive services and is the primary source of funding for these services for Indian Tribes.

The FVPSA would expand grant programs and make many needed improvements so that more survivors have access to support and safety, including:

- Adjustment of the funding distribution formula to increase the amount that Tribes receive from 10% to 12.5%;
- Dedicated funding for Tribal coalitions to provide culturally-appropriate technical assistance to Tribes;
- Permanent funding for the national Indian domestic violence hotline;
- Permanent funding for the Alaska Tribal Resource Center on Domestic Violence to reduce disparities facing Native victims; and
- Permanent funding for the Native Hawaiian Resource Center on Domestic Violence.

Bridging Agency Data Gaps and Ensuring Safety (BADGES) for Native Communities Act

On February 16, Senators Catherine Cortez Masto (D-NV) and John Hoeven (R-ND) introduced the bipartisan BADGES for Native Communities Act (S. 465) in the Senate. On March 1, Representatives Ruben Gallego (D-AZ-3), Dan Newhouse (R-WA-4), and Sharice Davids (D-KS-3) introduced the BADGES Act in the House (H.R. 1292).

The bill would promote recruitment and retention of federal law enforcement, address inefficiencies in federal missing persons data systems, increase Tribal access to the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System (NamUs), and establish a grant program to improve coordination efforts between states, Tribes, and Tribal organizations on cases of missing and murdered persons.

Strengthening Protections for Domestic Violence and Stalking Survivors Act of 2023

On February 9, Senator Amy Klobuchar (D-MN) and Representatives Debbie Dingell (D-MI-6), Brian Fitzpatrick (R-PA-1), and Sheila Jackson Lee (D-TX-18) introduced the bipartisan, bicameral Strengthening Protections for Domestic Violence and Stalking Survivors Act of 2023 (S. 321/H.R. 905).

The bill would close what is known as the “dating loophole” or “boyfriend loophole” by preventing convicted stalkers and former dating partners convicted of domestic violence from purchasing or owning firearms. Current law prohibits spouses, former spouses, those cohabitating together, and those who have a child in common from owning a firearm if there is a protective order against them. The Strengthening Protections for Domestic Violence and Stalking Survivors Act would add convicted stalkers and dating partners convicted of domestic violence to this list in an effort to close those gaps that embolden abusers and put women in danger.

Resources/Other Information

1. *Start by Believing FAQ’s (from End Violence Against Women International)

“This month, we are dedicating our frequently asked questions to Start by Believing.

Q: How Does Start by Believing Help Ensure a Thorough Investigation?

A victim's disclosure is usually the first step in a sexual assault investigation, and the more information a victim can provide, the more avenues for investigation are opened up. When victims are met with respect and compassion, they are more likely to develop rapport with the investigator and share detailed information.

When victims feel dismissed or disregarded, they may not believe it is safe to provide information, or their level of anxiety may be increased to the point where it impairs their ability to communicate what happened. Even a "neutral" stance will often be insufficient to establish the trust and rapport victims need to share memories that are confusing, painful, or humiliating.

Victim interviews are more likely to be successful when they are conducted with an expression of genuine empathy and an awareness that memories may not "make sense" at first. The process of piecing together a coherent recollection of sexual assault takes a great deal of time, patience, compassion, and support.

Q: Does Start by Believing Mean "Always Believe" Victims?

No. Unfortunately, the Start by Believing philosophy is sometimes mischaracterized in this way. For criminal justice professionals, participation in Start by Believing does not mean that they cast aside their responsibility to conduct a full and thorough investigation, or to ignore evidence that contradicts a victim's report or statements made by witnesses and suspects. It does not require believing everything a victim says. It simply offers a starting place for a thorough, evidence-based investigation.

Start by Believing is designed to encourage professionals to start from an orientation of believing when someone discloses sexual assault victimization, as opposed to starting with the assumption that the victim is lying. Clearly, law enforcement professionals must conduct a thorough investigation, and make all case determinations based on the evidence. After beginning from the orientation of Start by Believing, criminal justice professionals then follow the evidence through the course of a fair and impartial investigation.

Q: Do I Need to Say the Exact Words, "I Believe You?"

Depending on your role and the circumstances, you may not feel comfortable saying "I believe you." There are many other things you can say to help a victim feel supported and comfortable in talking to you. For example, you could use phrases like, "I'm sorry this happened to you," or "What can I do to help?"

The Start by Believing website offers specific examples of what to say to victims. The important issue is not the exact words that are used, but the fact that victims are treated with compassion and respect, instead of hearing the message that they are not believed, and their disclosure is not being taken seriously. For criminal justice professionals, this message is also communicated by conducting a thorough, evidence-based investigation with compassion and professionalism. Please see Start by Believing: Participation of Criminal Justice Professionals.

2. Meeting The Legal Aid Needs Of Human Trafficking Survivors (article from Law360)

"By Sarah Dohoney Byrne and Renata Parras | April 21, 2023, 5:55 PM EDT · Listen to article View article here

The recently released Legal Deserts Report 2.0, or LDR2, which we co-authored with the National Survivor Law Collective and the Avery Center, highlights the continued gaps in access to justice for victims of human trafficking.

While national efforts to increase awareness about both sex trafficking and forced labor have been successful, many survivors of this crime continue to have a wide range of unmet legal needs. The LDR2 is the successor to a 2021 report that identified geographic and subject matter gaps in legal support for survivors. LDR2 takes the next step by proposing ways firms, bar associations, academia, clinics, companies and funders can better fill these gaps.

Following are some suggestions for how law firms and attorneys can heed the call, informed by our own anti-human-trafficking legal practice and reinforced by the conclusions of the LDR2 report.

Understand Trauma-Informed Practices

First and foremost, as LDR2 points out, "it is imperative that attorneys who work with trafficking survivors are trauma informed and understand best trauma-informed practices."

A trauma-informed approach includes understanding the power differential between survivors and their legal representatives, and acknowledging the former lack of agency many clients experienced in the context of their exploitation. Training in this regard ought to be imbedded in any law firm pro bono program and in any law school clinic or curriculum endeavoring to address human trafficking.

With a trauma-informed foundation, law firm programs setting out to provide pro bono legal representation to trafficking survivors must acknowledge the need for a comprehensive and holistic approach to address the full spectrum of legal needs for this distinct category of crime victim. Where a firm does not have the expertise to handle one portion of a survivor's case, partnering with other legal service providers is key to success.

Address Civil Law Needs

In addition to often needing representation to expunge or vacate criminal records incurred while being trafficked, or with immigration applications, most survivors present with a variety of other civil law needs.

Family Law

Upon distilling feedback from stakeholders, including survivors, lawyers and service providers, LDR2 found that "assistance with family law matters surfaced as the number one unmet legal need of survivors." If the original firm doesn't have that competency in-house, partnering with family law attorneys may be key to building a successful relationship with the survivor.

In addition, innovative charitable or philanthropic funding programs from other stakeholders, including corporate clients, could provide the financial resources to train lawyers to become proficient in family law matters. They could also fund limited-scope representations for family law attorneys for survivors who would otherwise have no support in advocating for their rights to their children.

Consumer Law and Credit Repair

The consequences of financial fraud committed by traffickers, which can include identity theft, coerced debt or tax filings, leaves many survivors in need of consumer law and credit repair assistance. This niche area is ripe for pro bono assistance by attorneys in various practice areas.

In the last year, Regulation V of the Fair Credit Reporting Act became effective specifically providing relief from bad credit status for trafficking victims. At this time, though, there remains no central provider to assist survivors with their filings under this federal regulation. Yet pro bono support has already proven to enhance survivor access to the relief they deserve.

This is also a particularly ripe area for pro bono partnerships between law firms and their business clients, who frequently express a desire to support survivors, but are oftentimes uncertain about how they can offer the most value in light of their business expertise.

Train Legal Navigators as Survivor Liasons

If firms are looking for an innovative way to support human trafficking survivors, LDR2 suggests developing "legal navigator" roles for legal professionals. A legal navigator serves as the point of contact for a survivor who has various legal needs in various geographic areas that are being met by various providers.

The legal navigator liaises between the survivor and their lawyers to provide information and receive updates. This helps the survivor avoid repeatedly relaying information that may be traumatizing. It also lets them receive updates from a trusted and comfortable central source who can help explain an otherwise confusing processes. This is most helpful for survivors who are seeking criminal records relief in multiple jurisdictions.

Pursue Federal Criminal Records Relief

It bears reminding that there remains one gaping hole in access to justice for human trafficking survivors: criminal records relief on the federal level.

By its very definition, the crime of human trafficking involves being forced, coerced or tricked into activities that a person would not otherwise engage in — such as selling sexual services or performing work without pay. Human traffickers often force or coerce victims to engage in criminal activity involving weapons, drugs, identity theft and other financial fraud, or even facilitating the trafficking scheme.

Most states have a statutory mechanism to provide relief in the form of affirmative defenses or expunction and vacatur for criminal records that resulted from the survivor's being trafficked. However, there remains no federal statutory relief for survivors who are arrested, charged or convicted of federal offenses that resulted from trafficking.

The Trafficking Survivors Relief Act, proposed in the U.S. House of Representatives in 2022, would provide a framework for a federal affirmative defense and expunction relief under certain circumstances. Advocacy for this important piece of federal legislation, enhancements to current state records relief statutes and increased pro bono representation to access this relief, are much needed.

All that said, criminal records relief and affirmative defense statutes still require survivors to bear the burden of demonstrating a nexus between the crime they are accused or convicted of and their victimization. For this reason, it is also necessary to increase awareness throughout the criminal justice system about the relationship between trafficking, trauma and coercion. Preemptive awareness about the realities of this crime of exploitation would mitigate the harms caused by criminalizing victims and decrease the need for post-conviction relief processes.

Looking Forward

These suggestions just scratch the surface of worthy efforts to increase access to justice for human trafficking survivors. As LDR2 concludes, "With care, coordination, and collaboration among all stakeholders we can close the gaps and increase support of trafficking survivors on their journeys to freedom."

Law firms, and attorneys, should consider joining the fight against human trafficking and working toward restorative justice for survivors."

3. *A Proclamation on National Crime Victims' Week, 2023

April 21, 2023

HOME

PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS

Every person deserves to feel safe in their home, school, workplace, and community. Yet each year, millions of Americans fall victim to acts of violence, theft, fraud, and other crimes. Often, the pain and trauma can have long-term impacts. During National Crime Victims' Rights Week, we recommit to the work of preventing crime, supporting victims as they heal, and holding offenders accountable.

Beyond the physical, psychological, and emotional scars, victims and their families too often bear the economic burden of the crimes they suffered — such as lost income, medical bills, or expenses for temporary housing. As a United States Senator, I was proud to support the Victims of Crime Act in 1984, which created a Crime Victims Fund using fines from Federal prosecutions to directly compensate victims and finance victim assistance services. In recent years, the fund's balance declined significantly, so I signed a bill in 2021 to rebuild it and ensure that victims can access these critical resources.

Last year, I also reauthorized and strengthened the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), which I first wrote as a United States Senator more than 30 years ago to change the laws and culture around the scourge of domestic and sexual violence in America. For decades, this law has supported shelters and rape crisis centers; funded housing and legal assistance for survivors of abusive relationships, sexual assault, and stalking; and helped train law enforcement agencies and courts to make the justice system more responsive to survivors' needs.

As President, I increased funding for VAWA to its highest level so that we can hold more offenders accountable and allow more victims to access trauma-informed care — especially victims from underserved communities, including those from the LGBTQI+ community and rural areas. Tribal courts will now be able to exercise jurisdiction over non-Native perpetrators of sexual assault, child abuse, and sex trafficking. The law also enables victims to take people who disseminate their intimate images without consent to court, and it provides training for law enforcement, prosecutors, and victim service providers in addressing online abuse and cyberstalking.

I signed into law the COVID-19 Hate Crimes and Khalid Jabara-Heather Heyer NO HATE Acts, which help State, local, and Tribal law enforcement agencies better track and prosecute hate-fueled acts of violence against people from marginalized groups, including by establishing state-run reporting hotlines for victims of hate crimes. We also made lynching a Federal hate crime for the first time in American history with the Emmett Till Antilynching Act, giving prosecutors more power to pursue perpetrators of these vile acts. I also hosted the United We Stand Summit, convening civic, faith, philanthropic, and business leaders to prevent and respond to hate crimes, and to help survivors of hate crimes and their communities heal from these tragic events.

While my Administration continues to take historic action to reduce gun crime, we are also taking action to help survivors of gun violence and families that have lost loved ones to this public health epidemic. Last June, I was proud to sign the Bipartisan Safer Communities Act, the most sweeping gun safety law in nearly three decades. Among other steps, this law helps keep guns out of the hands of dating partners convicted of violent crimes and provides over a billion dollars to address the youth mental health crisis in America, especially trauma experienced by survivors of gun violence. In March 2023, I signed an Executive Order directing key members of my Cabinet to submit a proposal for improving Federal support for communities and individuals impacted by gun violence.

Supporting crime victims also requires building trust between the public and law enforcement. When someone falls victim to a crime, first responders should have the resources they need to ensure victims feel heard, valued, and supported. We have provided States with over $10 billion to improve law enforcement training, fund community violence interventions, purchase necessary equipment like body-worn cameras, clear court backlogs, and support crime victims. My Safer America Plan calls for an additional $37 billion to prevent crime, reduce gun violence, and create a fairer justice system — including by hiring 100,000 more officers for safe, effective, and accountable community policing, consistent with the standards of my policing Executive Order, which will also help strengthen public trust in law enforcement.

This week and every week, let us all commit to doing our part to help prevent crimes and to provide survivors with the resources they need to heal, pursue justice, and emerge stronger. If you or a loved one are a victim of crime, I encourage you to visit www.Crimevictims.gov.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOSEPH R. BIDEN JR., President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim April 23 through April 29, 2023, as National Crime Victims' Rights Week. I call upon all Americans to observe this week by participating in events that raise awareness of victims' rights and services and by volunteering to serve and support victims in their time of need.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-first day of April, in the year of our Lord two thousand twenty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and forty-seventh.

4. NCVRW Message from OVC Director Kristina Rose

“Dear Colleagues,

It is my honor to officially kick off National Crime Victims' Rights Week (NCVRW). This year's theme—Survivor Voices: Elevate. Engage. Effect Change.—calls upon each of us to amplify the voices of survivors and commit to creating an environment where survivors have the confidence that they will be heard, believed, and supported. Their voices matter in determining what justice means to them; in how and when they engage with victim services; in choosing to give a victim impact statement; and in participating in criminal justice system reform conversations.

We know people with lived experiences have so much to offer as they navigate adversity. They inspire and lead innovative programs and illuminate the barriers that prevent survivors from accessing services or pursuing justice. NCVRW commences today with launching one of those innovative programs in Albuquerque, New Mexico—the Youth Advocacy Corps and I am so proud to be a part of it!

The Youth Advocacy Corps is a pilot program led by the National Organization for Victim Assistance (NOVA) with OVC funding, which aims to uplift and celebrate the voices of marginalized youth in victim advocacy by providing student fellows with training, mentorship, and a paid field-placement in a local victim service organization. These young people represent the future of victim services and victim advocacy – I am excited to see how they inspire and shape the field of practice.

Of course, I'll be back in DC in time for the 2023 NCVRW Candlelight Vigil on Wednesday, April 26. There is still time to register for the vigil, so, if you live in the DC metro area or will be visiting, I welcome you to join us. We'll hear from innovators—Anna Nasset, Jerome Brown, and Roberta Roper—singer/songwriter Kelly Jackson, and the American Pops Orchestra. It's sure to be a moving event and a reminder of why we do this important work! There will be other NCVRW activities held around the Nation, too, and I encourage you to visit our Events page to find one near you.

OVC will end the week by hearing from survivors on important criminal justice reform issues where their voices are too often left out of the conversation. We intend to release a summary of the discussions to share take-aways with victim service providers and criminal justice professionals that inform policy and practice. It is paramount that crime survivors have a voice everywhere decisions are made that could impact them.

Finally, our Resource Guide offers many ideas to develop awareness campaigns, from posting social media content throughout the week to sharing our theme videos with colleagues and friends. Just be sure to use #NCVRW2023 in your social media content, so we can follow along! Each year, we share content from around the Nation every day of NCVRW and it's a highlight of our week to be able share in your commemorations.

On behalf of the Office for Victims of Crime, thank you for helping to lift up the voices of survivors everywhere.

Sincerely,

Kristina Rose
Director"

9. Ending Financial Abuse this Financial Literacy Month (from NNEDV)

April is Financial Literacy Month, a time meant to encourage people to take stock of their personal finances and brush up on the knowledge they need to manage their money. At the National Network to End Domestic Violence (NNEDV), we can't talk about financial literacy without talking about financial abuse—and the ways in which abusers often use finances in order to trap their partners and keep them from living safe, economically sustainable lives. Financial abuse is one of the most powerful methods of keeping a survivor dependent on an abuser, and its impacts are often worse for survivors of color, survivors with disabilities, immigrant survivors, and other survivors already facing economic instability.

NNEDV is committed to supporting survivors of financial abuse and the advocates and programs helping them—throughout Financial Literacy Month and all year long. Here are just some of the things our team is proud to do:

Creating the Independence Project, providing credit-building micro-loans to survivors, helping them move from short-term safety to long-term security.

Developing the Moving Ahead Curriculum and grant program, in partnership with The Allstate Foundation, which strengthens advocates' financial capabilities to better assist survivors of financial abuse.

Convening advocates and stakeholders through our annual Economic Justice Summit and the Economic Justice and Domestic Violence Advisory Council. (Stay tuned for some exciting updates next week—including new Advisory Council recommendations about advocate compensation.)

Advocating for federal policies that promote economic justice for survivors, including paid sick, safe, and family medical leave; equal pay protections; an increased minimum wage; housing protections and safety net benefits; and other policy priorities.

I want to share a quote with you from an Independence Project borrower, who told us: "As a single mother, my goal is to improve my credit score and buy a home for my family. The Independence Project helped me get closer to that goal."

10. Bureau of Justice Statistics Report: Female Murder Victims and Victim-Offender Relationship, 2021 (Released December 2022)

"This just the Stats report presents findings on murder victims by victim sex and the relationship of the victim to the alleged offender. Estimates in the report are derived from data submitted by law enforcement agencies to the FBI's National Incident-Based Reporting System in 2021.

The percentage of females murdered by an intimate partner was 5 times higher than for males. Of the estimated 4,970 female victims of murder and nonnegligent manslaughter in 2021, data reported by law enforcement agencies indicate that 34% were killed by an intimate partner (figure 1). By comparison, about 6% of the 17,970 males murdered that year were victims of intimate partner homicide.

Overall, 76% of female murders and 56% of male murders were perpetrated by someone known to the victim. About 16% of female murder victims were killed by a nonintimate family member—parent, grandparent, sibling, in-law, and other family member—compared to 10% of male murder victims.

A larger percentage of males (21%) were murdered by a stranger than females (12%). For 1 out of every 3 male murder victims and 1 out of every 5 female murder victims, the relationship between the victim and the offender was unknown.”

11. Helping Crime Victim Legal Clinics Help Their Clients by Defining and Measuring for Successful Outcomes (article from NIJ)

“NIJ-backed research offers the first conceptual model for aligning victim legal services with desired results and assessing effectiveness in terms of actual client outcomes.

We know lawyers can help victims of crime. But we’re still learning what successful legal representation of crime victims looks like in different kinds of cases.

New research supported by the National Institute of Justice identifies a model process to help crime victim legal clinics refine their operations in ways that can work best for clients. The study also offers a roadmap for evaluating whether and how case outcomes are benefiting their crime victim clients in meaningful ways.

Federal law and the legal system have long recognized crime victims’ rights. Starting in the 1970s, legal clinics and other victim services emerged to safeguard those rights. The federal Crime Victims’ Rights Act of 2004 spelled out the rights of crime victims and provided resources to protect them. Before that, the Victims’ Rights and Restitution Act of 1990 required federal agencies to give best efforts to ensure that crime victims are treated with fairness and respect and protected from those who victimized them, among other rights. Most states have adopted their own crime victim protections.”

13. Promising Futures National Scan Recommendation

“Promising Futures, a project of Futures Without Violence, is conducting a National Scan in search of innovative, community-driven, and culturally grounded services for children, youth, and parents experiencing family violence and other traumas.

Organizations working to serve survivors and prevent domestic violence are doing great work in communities across the country and the context of a global pandemic. We also know many programs are working on similar issues that may or may not be within the field and whose approaches we can learn.

With this goal in mind, we are reaching out to experts in the field and their communities who can help us identify promising intervention models that help to foster safer conditions for children & caregivers, healing for those impacted by violence across age and gender spectrums, parent-child bonding, and/or social-emotional skills.

If permitted by the program creators, program models and tools will be shared on the Promising Futures website to continue to advance the field’s access to meaningful programming. For example, programs from the previous National Scan can be found here. In this iteration of the scan, we hope to center and include more community-based and culturally grounded programs. You may read more about elements of promising program models here. Any recommendations you make will help share knowledge across communities.

If you would like to preview the survey before beginning it, please click here.

Thanks for your participation,

The Promising Futures National Scan Team”

15. From ANA's Office of the Commissioner on Proposed FY2024 Budget

In March, the Biden administration released its new fiscal year 2024 budget proposal for Native American programs totaling $87.5 million. If approved, this budget request will benefit the Administration for Native Americans with a potential to increase last year’s budget by $27 million.

The President’s proposed budget—informed by direct consultation with Tribal leaders—continues to demonstrate his strong commitment through historic investments to the Indian Health Service, Tribal public safety, affordable housing, education, language, and economic development.

“The President’s budget proposal, a 45 percent increase to ANA’s programs, reflects the value of the deep work Native American communities are doing every day to create flourishing economies, address critical social needs, and preserve their languages,” said ANA Commissioner Patrice H. Kunesh. “These funds would strategically invest an additional $5 million for Native American Language Programs, and new initiatives supporting $7 million for Tribal Integrated Early Education Services, and $15 million for the Strengthening Trauma Resilience of Native Grant Demonstration project.”

Commissioner Kunesh added proposed funds earmarked for Native American Language Programs will allow ANA the opportunity to meet urgent needs across the United States and the Pacific Islands with potential to support up to 20 new Native language grant awards.
